

TOP 10 REASONS for encouraging school excursions, camps & incursions

School excursions, camps and incursions play an important role in the emotional and educational development of Australian school students.

1

Be the best you can be

School excursions allow students to reveal their inner talents – and shine!

2

Develop leadership skills and confidence

School trips help students develop important leadership skills and learn about teamwork.

3

Inspire new interests

School excursions and incursions can spark interest in a new hobby – or even a new career path!

4

Learn boundaries and consequences

School trips can help teach children about boundaries and consequences – and help teachers tame negative behaviours.

5

Build resilience

Students learn to be more resilient.

6

Explore the wider world

Students can get the chance to experience international travel.

7

Reduce your carbon footprint

Students can learn about their impact on the environment - and their carbon footprint.

8

Bring STEM skills to life

School trips provide the ideal 'outdoor laboratory' to bring STEM skills to life.

9

Value your indigenous heritage

Students can learn about Australia's Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander heritage and culture.

10

Make memories for life

School camps can provide positive lifelong memories.

School trips can literally change a child's world for the better. For great ideas on school excursions, camps and incursions visit
